Building & Earth Sciences was recently ranked the third largest engineering firm in the state of Alabama according to 2012 Top Rank, released by Business Alabama magazine. The ranking was based on total design fees. Building & Earth performed Geotechnical, materials testing and Special Inspection services in 22 states last year and continued to maintain market share over the past several years. Early indications for 2012 are that the construction industry is improving in the markets they serve, and Building & Earth expects continued growth.
